Book by Professor Seth Mallios: "Hail Montezuma! The Hidden Treasures of San Diego State". 2012. Montezuma Publishing.

Jessie Rand Tanner (PE Faculty 1904-1936): Jessie was a pioneer teacher and director of physical education & women's athletics at San Diego State (Normal School and State Teachers College.) She was the first physical education specialist (1904), first Department Head of Physical Education, and first Director of the Women's Athletic Association (achieved charter membership in the national association, the Athletic Conference of American College Women, in 1923.)

From the book by Seth Mallios:

"Miss Jessie Rand Tanner, the driving force behind a more competitive women's athletic program at SDNS"

"Not only did she introduce tennis and basketball to the Lady Normalites, she cleverly offered a white sleeve band embossed with a brilliant gold letter "S" to any female student who practiced gymnastics for one hour a week; this was State's first varsity letter for women."

"Tanner worked diligently to make women's crew more athletic and less social, which led the less competitive crews to reorganize as sororities between 1923 and 1925."

"Despite these strides, she still adhered to the established norms of San Diego State and the region, which restricted female athletes from competing against women from other schools."

PE Faculty Sponsors for the San Diego State Chapter of the Women's Athletic Association (later known as the Women's Athletic & Recreation Association)

There are few individual PE women coaches or alumni given recognition in the first 70+ years of San Diego State history because the advent of women's intercollegiate athletics had not yet begun on campus. Therefore, recognition is given to those women faculty who created and sponsored opportunities for women to participate in competitive sports at San Diego State. These opportunities were primarily available through the Women's Athletic Association (W.A.A.), which received charter status at San Diego State in 1923 through the efforts of PE faculty member Jessie Rand Tanner. There were many PE women faculty over the years who were identified as faculty sponsors of W.A.A. activities and events, including Jessie Rand Tanner, Muriel Bennett, Dorothy Tollefsen, Evelyn Robinson, Marion L. Schwob, Kathleen Fox, and others.

By 1970-71 the Association was known as the Women's Athletic and Recreation Association (W.A.R.A.). A brochure described the role it played on campus: "W.A.R.A. provides opportunities for every woman on campus to participate in any and all kinds of sports. Extramural sports include volleyball, field hockey, and badminton in the Fall and badminton, basketball, golf, gymnastics, swimming, tennis, and track and field in the Spring. These teams meet with various colleges and universities in California with opportunities to travel to National Collegiate Games anywhere in the United States. Intramurals are enjoyed by clubs, dorms, sororities, and independent groups in an array of activities ranging from ping pong to swim meets. Co-ed activities are also a large part of intramurals. W.A.R.A adds to the total athletic and recreation program by contributing to the professionalism of physical education. "

ENS Historian Profiles:

The ENS historians have a long association with San Diego State University:

Ronald V. Josephson (Ph.D., University of Minnesota) is Emeritus Professor of ENS. In 1975, Ron joined the SDSU faculty in Family Studies & Consumer Sciences (FSCS), after serving on the faculty at Ohio State University. He taught and was author or co-author of refereed journal research articles, primarily in food science. Ron served on the Editorial Board of CRC Reviews in Food Science & Nutrition and was President of the San Diego Chapter of Sigma Xi, the research honorary society. He served in various administrative and service capacities at SDSU (Acting FSCS Director, Coordinator of Food and Nutritional Sciences, Graduate & Undergraduate Advisor, and Academic Senator). As Coordinator, Ron worked with colleagues to negotiate the successful merger with the Department of Physical Education in 1993-94 to what is now the School of Exercise and Nutritional Sciences (ENS). He retired from SDSU in 2001. He received an Outstanding Alumni Award from Penn State University in 2006. Ron lives in Encinitas, CA.

Margo Kasch is a graduate (Mathematics) of SDSU and daughter of the late Dr. Frederick Kasch. He was Professor of Physical Education and pioneer in cardiac rehabilitation and exercise physiology at SDSU from 1948 to 1981. Margo was instrumental in creating the Frederick W. Kasch Papers (1937-2011) Collection at the SDSU Library, the Frederick W. Kasch Endowment (1999) and the John L. Boyer Endowment (2008) now merged and informally known as the Kasch-Boyer Endowment for ENS Graduate Students. In 2012 Margo received the SDSU Monty "Distinguished Alumni Service Award" for her decades of voluntary service to SDSU. Margo lives in San Diego, CA.

J.E. Lindsay Carter, a native of New Zealand, is Emeritus Professor of ENS. Dr. Carter (Ph.D., University of Iowa) served on the Physical Education faculty at SDSU from 1962 to 1992, and taught a graduate class until 2006. Lindsay is a noted expert in kinanthropometric research of Olympic athletes and authored or co-authored over 130 articles, book chapters and is author or editor of nine books. He has received many honors for his teaching and research contributions. He is an Honorary Life Member and Past-President of the International Society of Kinanthropometry and a Fellow of the American Academy of Kinesiology and Physical Education. He has received two honorary doctorate degrees. The J.E. Lindsay Carter Kinanthropometry Clinic and Archive is named for him at the Auckland University of Technology in New Zealand. He continues his interests in kinanthropometry and collaboration with international colleagues. Lindsay lives in El Cajon, CA.
